Captain Gove of the steamer Brooklyn City, plying between Newport and Bristol, arrived here Sunday, and to-day stated that his steamer and the Amsterdam were together from the morning of the 20th of July to the morning of the 30th, and parted about noon on that day 130 miles from the scene of the wrock. On both of these days, Capt. Gove says, he found himself eighteen miles off from where he ought to have been, and his steering compass was practically uscless on account of weather disturbances. Andrew Biong, Theo. Harris and C. H. Ketchum will be the ring ticket in the Tenth Ward.

The latest from Dr. Luta is that he hopes to be a member of the State Committee from his Congressional District. As the Executive Committee of the Central Committee generally composes two or three members from St. Louis, the election of Dr. Lutz would be in the nature of a calamity. Yet, it is possible that the ring may succeed in putting him in by industrious wire-work at Jefferson City. The report is that Lutz, being from St. Louis, will be put on the Executive Committee, and that, as the city nembers will probably hold a controlling vote in the Executive Committee, he will be chosen chairman, where he can, in the management of the campaign, force Marmaduke to terms or make the situation very embargassing. Such a prospect would be a good argument in favor of giving Kansas City the Executive Committee.

Mr. Robert W. Goode to-day stated to a Post-Dis-Patcin reporter who called upon him that he was very anxious to correct a statement that he had made to the effect that Mr. A. R. Goode says he had to persuade Mr. Taylor not to run and thought he had made Mr. Taylor of his own mind in that regard, but this morning Mr. Taylor fold him he would be a candidate Mr. Goode thinks Mr. Taylor is burying his aleasts by taking a place which cannot add to his well-established reputation as a lawyer and must entail an annual pecuniary loss to him.

Newell intended to account the funds, which would have put him in the attitude of a good Samaritan. The Probate Court promptly disposed of his claim as executor. He could not be administrator, and, being thus disappointed, he took a mean revenge by attacking me. During my residence in St. Louis my wife has employed at various times Drs. Mudd, Kier, Gregory, Frazier, Eversole, McCandless, Stevens and Garcia. All of these I think are paid. Dr. Stevens of, 2010 Locust efreet and Dr. Garcia have attended her more than any others, and can testify that I urged more of their attendance than my wife would permit. If Mr. Newell has, or can make any criminal charge against me, he is the last man in St. Louis to delay doing so. I have done him no harm, but on the contrary have provided him with many free passes and cheap tickets for which he ought to be gratified. Three orphan neices of my wife not in any way related to me, now in St. Louis, will tell any one interested that these statements are true and that I am the best friend they ever had. I do not need to say anything in reply to Newell's attack on the good Sisters of St. Mary. Their goodness and exceeding kindness are too well known to the citizens of St. Louis. As to my wife's mental condition, and their treatment of her while at the Infirmary, they will give the fullest information to any one who asks. As for myself, I intend to go to work right here in St. Louis as soon as I am well enough, and expect to pay every man I owe. If I cannot I will face the music. Committee the friends of MARMADUKE may say with the friends of CLEVELAND, love him for the enemies he has made."

Some of the members of the House of Delegates who are complaining that the Health Department has no power to abate nuisances have reason to be thankful that this is the case. A SHORTER way to get delegates for the Stat

THE news that England has signed diplomati relations with Mexico sounds a little bit premature. For twenty years England has insisted that the resumption of diplomatic relations on her part depended on the resumption of interest payments on the part of Mexico, and if the other side. Mexico has found any money to pay England with it must have been found in an old stock ing. The last report of the Mexican Treasury was that it was spouting its due bills with the National Bank for $18,000 a day and $50,000 on Saturdays to keep the pot a boiling. This would hardly run the very expensive Government which Mexico keeps up and pay the interest on the English debt. An added improba bility is given to the story by the explanation that "the negotiations are said to have been hurried by the English Government because of a belief in BLAINE's election." That is not the way the English Government does business.

THE assistant surgeon in charge of the Marine Hospital at Evansville has received an official the Annie P. Silver matter from the Surgeon General. Surgeon General Hamof which you had information under paragraph 63 of the Regulations." The Regulations direct who lived in houses owned by the company succeed-the assistant surgeons to report cases of which ed in having the company reduce the rents 20 per they have information as occurring at or near their respective stations. Assistant Surgeon Ames had no information whatever, he had merely an irresponsible and false rumor of a case which had not happened at or near his station. He is only less culpable than Surgeon General Hamilton, who "gave information to the press" when he had no information to give. When one of the important departments of the spreading false and damaging reports, it needs a completer vindication than this.

"MR. MOORE, a business man of Buffalo," who is given as authority for the Blaine organ version of the Halpin story, turns out to be the market for a year past other than to notice a gen-notorious fellow who was to have been one of Kriper's witnesses with Elder and Works, following table of comparative values may be of inbut was not examined. He did not appear on the witness stand then, because General Boyn-TON was preparing to impeach his testimony with proof that he had been indicted for conpiracy to defame a reputable citizen, and also that he had been engaged in a conspiracy to fix a false charge of murder upon another citizen of high standing, merely that he might imprison the said citizen in Texas, and thus prevent him from testifying in a case against some of Moore's employers. As he was not permitted to serve ex-Speaker KEIPER on the witne stand, and two indictments for crime in the District of Columbia rather impaired his politfcal usefulness in that locality, the Pension Bureau sept him as a special agent to Buffalo to testify to any story the organs might desire to print in the interest of ex-Speaker BLAINE.

nce into the face of the honest Demoerats of St. Louis. It has made all the arrange made arrangements to hold mass meetings and resent something better than ballot-stuffing, and the convention may be relied on to sit down heavily on any delegations which go up as the representative of ring tactics. There is trouble ahead for this St. Louis ring. and it has only hastened it by its open insult to decent Democracy in its recent action.

BUTLER'S MASK.

Gen. B. F. BUTLER has announced that he will ruff as the candidate of the Anti-Monopolists, Greenbackers and laboring men, and that he is only waiting for CLEVELAND'S letter of acceptance in order that his own may be enriched with criticisms upon it. What Gen. BUTLER is in this fight for is not a matter of conjecture. Messrs. Gould and Huntington are afraid that the vote of the workingmen and Anti-Monopolists will elect CLEVELAND over BLAINE, and the latter's old friend and fellow servant of the great corporation magnates undertakes to draw off his Irish friends and the Anti-Monopolists from CLEVELAND by setting up as a candidate himself in his very recently assumed role of Treasury watch-dog, labor protector and opponent of land grabs and corporation influence.

Throughout his career in Congress, Gen. BUTLER, like BLAINE, made money "hand over fist," and was the ever-ready aider and abetter of all the land-grabs and of all the fraudulent legislation by which the rule of a corporation oligarchy was fastened upon the country, the public domain converted into a huge monopoly for millionaires, and the public treasury tapped for those unpaid and uncollectable Pacific Railroad loans, BUTLER and BLAINE were the advocates of all that legislation. They connived at and facilitated all the frauds in that connection. They both opposed the Thurman bill, and neither one of them ever cast a vote or sounded an alarm that put a straw of places at the primaries is a challenge to the obstruction in the way of any wrongs that mo-

Now, when both BLAINE and BUTLER are very rich, they are both still working with and for their old partners; the one labeled as record, Mr. BLAINE says: "In '53 I went to GOULD's and HUNTINGTON'S candidate; the other openly figuring as his campaign assistant cessively editor of the Kennebec Journal and in an attempt to divide the opposition and "hive" part of the anti-monopoly vote where it can successfully, though on that score I was not not be be counted against the interests and

In the light of his public record and political affiliations for fifteen years, there is no chance for any well-posted man to mistake the object and purpose of General BUTLER. It is a prima facie case of an attempt to drug and disable the labor vote and the anti-monopoly vote with demagogue bait administered by one of the oldest and most reliable benchmen of

CAMPAIGN DOCUMENTS.

The Republican platform, the Blaine letter of acceptance and the support of the ticket are all based on the assertion that the Republican party is the great, chief, and lasting source of the prosperity of this country. Yet two items clipped from this morning's Globe-Democrat show that, if there is any connection between the material condition of business and the policy of the Government, the Republican party is a

The first item is a special which shows what Republican rule has done for the workingman. It is a dispatch from Philadelphia, headed "English laborers leaving America," and it runs as follows:

A dispatch from Bethlehem, Pa., one of the cen-HATON says to Assistant Surgeon AMES: "You turning to their native lands, declaring that they have done nothing more than report any case can do better there than here. The Bethiehem Iron Company has reduced the wages of laborers in its employment to 92 cents a day. Those of the men cent, but those who could not secure any such relief Various expedients are now being resorted to to keep the wolf from the door. A co-operative store is being agitated, a Granger Society is talked of and a petition is now being circulated asking all proper-ty owners and merchants to reduce rents and

And on another page of the paper its financial reporter compiles a table of stock depreciations to show that Republican rule has dealt not more Government is thus made the instrument for kindly with the magnates of the stock kindly with the magnates of the stock market than with the Pennsylvania laborers than who work for 92 cents a day. This is the Rewho work for 92 cents a day. This is the Republican party's showing of a year's work in the stock market:

The Bottom Facts.

Prom the New Fork Evening Post.

There has been from the business but little to investigate, and that little we have favestigateed to our own satisfaction. It is admitted by Governor Cleveland's friends that twelve years ago be formed an irregular connection with a widow with two children, the eldest 14 years old; that she was a person of intemperate habits, and that the paternity of a child born subsequently was doubtful, but he accepted it, and made provisions for the child; that after suffering much annoyance from her—one of the natural and common penalties of such errors—and after satisfying her brother-in-law, who appeared on the scene as her protector, that he had behaved fairly toward her, he laid the whole matter before Mr. Burroughes, a lawyer of high standing in Buffalo;

cratic voters of St. Louis. This is a weak attempt to perpetuate that machine rule in St. Louis which is threatened with death in the coming election. It does not impose on any one and it need not alarm any one. The citiseps of several wards have already a legal surrender of the child for that purpose, and occasionally visiting it at the asylum afterward; that she subsequently stole and carried it off from the asylum; that Mr. Burroughes was notified of the facts by the authorities of the asylum, whereupon, acting on his own responsibility and without Mr. Cleveland's knowledge, he employed a detective to discover and look after the child; that in one of the detective visits he found the mother suffering from deligner temperature and texthering to kill the from delirum tremens and treathening to kill the child, which lay on the floor; that he carried her off then to the Inebriate Asylu m for treatment, and she staid there until she was cured, and no longer, and that the child was restored to its previous guard-

What the Editors of the New York Jour Are Saying To-Day.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

New York, August 7.—The World says: "The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, though in no sense a politician, is a man of vast intellectuality and we sustain for him profound respect as a citizen, clerg man and argumental chaplain. We were surprised when we heard of him speaking in rather uncharit able terms of Gov. Cleveland, and we felt that he ould have entertained a kindlier better than Mr. Beecher how easy it is for a pure and chaste citizen to be made the victin of scandal; how easy it is to magnify and exaggerate the smallest of renial and exaggerate the smallest of renial offenses and how prone weak men are to hold other people accountable for sins that they are fond of committing themselves. We are pleased to know, however, that Mr. Beecher has investigated the charges made against the personal habits of Gov. Cleveland and has come to the conclusion that they are malicious and unfounded. He has no fault to find now with Mr. Cleveland, either as citizen or an official, and he intends to give him his hearty support. As a select committee of one we trust that Mr. Beecher will report to Plymouth Church as soon as the fall sessions begin.

He will stand by the nomination of the Greenbackers and the anti-monopolists as his formal introduction to the people at large, and address himself to the conduct of as was seen in these parts. He writes that he is only waiting until he shall have seen Gov. Cleveland's letter of acceptance to declare his own sentiments. This he will do with a degree of animation, for he is a most vigorous statesman, full of brains and ideas, son in respect to the Scotch properties alone amounts to £220,000.

Since his summer sojourn at his Pomeranian country seat, Bismarck's bodily health has been so much better than when he was in Berlin that most of his friends and all of his enemies advise his absence from the capital indefinitely.

For some extraordinary reason the heirs of Lord Byron informed Mr. Jeaffreson that if he attempted to publish any of the letters which proved that their

Large Number of Whom Have Remain at Home this Summer-The British Minister and His Family-Society Notes.

Washington is congratulating itself upon having stayed at home. A contented mind is a great sid to good health and digestion, and those who have remained in Washington this summer are more than content. The record of the month just closed shows that Washington has not had a July as cool and comfortable for more than a decade.

The British Minister, who remained all of last summer in Washington, and found his experiment a highly successful one, is repeating it this season. He and his three daughters and their governess may be seen every Sunday attending services at St. Matthew's (Catholic) Church in unpretending co-Matthew's (Catholic) Church in unpretending cos-tumes of quiet colors. In the late evenings they drive out, while in the heated portions of the day the thick walls and luxurious quarters of the British summer, and expects to remain unflifthe 1st of September, when he takes a short trip North with his family.

The Departments continue very empty as to Cabinet officers or their immediate assistants. Not only is the Secretary of State at his home, in New Jersey, but his assistants also seem to be absent. Mr. John Davis, the First Assistant Secretary, left with the President when he took his departure. Mr. Adde, the Second Assistant, has been in Europe for some time, and now it is announced that the Third Assistant, Mr. Hunter, has gone for the remainder of the season, to Newport. Secretary Lincoln, who has been the only member of the Zabinet in lown, will leave soon. It is expected that Postmaster-General Gresham will return about that time, in order that there may be somebody here to run the machine. Mrs. Fhelps, wife of the Minister to Peru, has gone to Geneva, N. Y. Mrs. Beaumont, widow of the late Admiral Beaumont, is spending the summer at Charlottesville, Va. Ex-Gov. Boutwell has gone to his home in Massachusetts. Mrs. Clark Mills, widow of the late Clark Mills, has gone to Fulton, N. Y., to wisit ber brother. Gen. Robert C. OFF FOR THE VATICAN.

Plead for German Catholies. Quite a stir was made among Catholics to-day by a report of the sudcen departure for Europe, last evening, of Father Faerber, of St. Mary's (German) evening, of Father Faerber, of St. Mary's (German) Church. The difference between the recognition accorded the English parishes and German Churches has never been astisfactory to the Germans, and now that the transistion of Archbishop Ryan offers a desirable opportunity, they intend making an effort to gain what they consider but their just and deserved privileges.
The German churches in St. Louis have hitherto been an auxiliary body and not an independent or agaization, they are clamoring that the Archbishop ahould recognize them as parishes and not allow the powers and privileges attaching to that distinction to accrue solely to the English churches. The mission to the Vatican of Father Faerber, if that gentleman has really gons, will have for its object the presentation to the papal authorities of the grievances mentioned. Which will be done in a formal petition. It is understood by prominent German Catholics that he will also urge the appointment of a German Archbishop to fill the coming vacancy in the coadjutorship, and as he goes well supported by the German sentiment and is possessed of much personal determination, an important result is expected. The English Catholics refer to the step without any animadvesions and think that it is a good thing that the questions, which have generated slumbering discontent, should be theroughly ventilated in order that they may be either entirely removed, or defined sharply enough to prevent anything like future discord.

It is expected thay will proceed from the latter place to Chicago and pace their match at that city, as it is on their way to the great Fair at Minneapolis, where a purse of $5,000 is offered for a special race between them $-$3,000 to the first horse and $2,000 to the other. The manager of the great Northwestern Fair, before offering such a large purse, desired to see if Richball was capable of making a race with Johnston, so at the late summer meeting at Chicago Campbell showed him a mile in $2:10\frac{1}{2}$, the last haff in 1:0\frac{1}{2}$, with his knee boot flapping around his ankle. Johnston has not stepped off a mile better than $2:11\frac{1}{2}$, the season, but this week he showed here in his exercise an easy sinlie in $2:18\frac{1}{2}$, last half in 1:0\frac{1}{2}$, it is also said that he was driven a quarter last fall in 30\frac{1}{2}$ seconds.

NEW YORK, August 7.—Mrs. Francis Belle Sullivan, a favorite in dramatic, musical and social circles of St. Louis, has begun a suit in the New York Supreme Court against the Mutual District Messenger Company for $2,500 damages. Mr. W. H. Henssell of No. 206 Broadway is her counsel. On April 5 of this year she secured the services of Messrs. Spies & Smart, dramatic agents, to obtain for her an engagement for the summer and winter. On April 19 they succeeded, the contract being with Mr. J. K. Smart, dramatic agents, to obtain for her an engagement for the summer and winter. On April 19 they succeeded, the contract being with Mr. J. K. Tillotson, who was forming a dramatic company to visit the Pacific Coast, the terms being eight weeks, beginning May I, at $40 per week, with the understanding that if found satisfactory Mrs. Sullivan would be engaged for the winter season of thirty-two weeks, "at an increased salary of $50 per week." All that was needed to complete the contract was Mrs. Sullivan's signature, and at 10:30 a. m. of April 19. Messrs. Spies & Smart called a district messenger and sent him to No. 300 West Twenty third street, where Mrs. Sullivan was then staying, with the message, "Come immediately." It was addressed "Miss Francis Field," Mrs. Sullivan's stage name. It is claimed that the Messenger Company should have delivered the note within thirty minutes. The message, it is alleged, was not received at the house until nearly 2 o'clock, though the lady had been in the house all day up to that time. She at once hastened to the office of Spies & Smart, only to find that she was too late. Mr. Tillotson had been present at the appointed hour and had walted a long time and then canceiled the engagement, having been obliged to make other arrangements. Thus, the complaint says, "by reason of the negligence and carciessness of the defendant." Mrs. Sullivan was deprived of the benefits of the engagement and of "a most enjoyable, "LEMANT AND PROPITABLE SUMMER TRIP. to California and the cities and sections of the Pacific States, with her traveling expenses and the salary to be paid and the prospective winter engagement of 1884 and 1885." In lieu of all this she claims $2.500 damages, together with costs of action. The company has made its reply, sworm to by Mr. W. W. Ridder, its secretary, through its council, Messrs. Butler, Stillman & Hubbard. They state that "at about 11:30 o'clock on the morning of April 19 Mr. Spies signalled for a messenger and one was sent him at No. 12 Union Square, to wh

A WEALTHY WANDERER.

Half of the World as Viewed by an Englishman.

rous Mexico-No Place for America or Capital Investments-The Festive andwich Islanders Condition of the Country-The Chinese in America-Leprosy in San Francisco.

Cusack is a wealthy Englishman who has been owing the English bent of seeing the world. In accordance with the rage of his countrymen he has visited nearly every part of the States; has passed through the whirl of New York life; has done Chicago; has witnessed the pig sucking and has drank beer and ate pretzels with the Cincinnatians; has sweltered with the St. Louisans; has visited the mines of the West, the dens of the Golden Gate; has smoked cigarettes and twanged his Spanish guitar for the dark-eyed senorius of Mexico, and has tasted the indolent delights of the Sandwich Islanders, and is now on his way home again. "I intended," said Mr. Cusack, who is a stalwart, handsome fellow, with his face scorched and browned by the Southern sun, "I intended to make a tour of the world, but when I got as far as the Sandwich Islands I concluded that would not pay me to go on to Australia and pass through Asia. Ten thousand miles away from home is enough for one year and I will try the other half next year."

"What route did you follow" asked the reporter.
"I came on to New York and straight here, then ce with the rage of his countrymen he has down into Mexico, where I spent a mount, account returned here, and going to San Francisco went by steamer to the Sandwich Islands."

RARBAROUS MEXICO.

Of Mexico Mr. Cusack. did not form a favorable opinion. He thought the country in a very unsettled state and no place for a man to plant capital.

"It is hit or miss down there," he said. "If you happen to make a good investment you are all right, perhaps, and may make money at heavy risks, but if you do not your money is gone, because you can not sell out to any one else. Mexico is known too well now. It is no place for Americans. They hate Americans. It presume because they are afraid of annexation, but it is, nevertheless, a fact. An American has very little chance down there.

He says the Government is run in the interest of officials and is in a terrible state of corruption. Gonzales went into office without a so of five millions or more, The government is interested in everything and taxes everything. "Why, I bought a pair of boots," continued with stamps, and yet not a cent of interest is paid on their bonds. The bonds are held mostly by England. I have a lot of them myself. They are worth 29 cents on the dollar and yet they are trying to raise a big loan again. They cannot do it."

"Did you notice any outrages while there?"

"One train was fired into going both ways. I noticed a man in shackles, held by a guard of soldiers, as we passed a station, and I asked what was the matter, and they said he was to be shot. He had kilied a man that day and was to be shot. He had kilied a man that day and was to be shot without a trial. The poor fellow was taking leave of his family. When I was in San Francisco I saw in the mint some bricks of silver, which they said had been sent from Mexico; before it left the country mint charges had to be paid to the Government. These charges must be paid to the Government. These charges must be paid whether the silver is coined or not."

The restrict sandwich islands is sugar, which there from the condition.

Islands and made himself conversant with their condition.

"The chief product of the Islands is sugar, and they are far from in a prosperous condition, with the bottom out of that staple. A few years ago extensive preparations were made for the cuitivation and manufacture of sugar. New machinery was brought from England, and to do this the plantations were mortgaged. Now the planters are unable to pay the mortgages. I know a gentleman who a few years ago sold half of his estate for $500,000. To-day he can scarcely make a living, and has nothing. The trade is entirely in the hands of foreigners, as the natives are boatmen, chiefly. They (the natives) are frightfully immoral, and this with leprosy is killing them off with great rapidity. They have a hospital on one island for lepers which is supported by the government. When a person goes there, he or she bids farewell to the rest of the world, for no one ever comes out alive. I saw a number of cases of leprosy, and it is a horrible disease, I can tell you."

Mr. Cusack thinks the Islands very fertile and capable of great productiveness. Bananas are raised in profusion, and this trade is becoming an important one. Coffee grows will, as do pincapples, also the coffee is of bester quality than that raised elsewhere.

The Chinere wave a strong hold on the Islands, and the coffee is of bester quality than that raised elsewbere.

The Chinese stave a strong hold on the Islands, and many of them have become very rich. Speaking further of the Chinese, Mr. Cusack said, with reference to the restrictive act passed by Congress, that it was inoparative to a great, extent. Numbers of Chinese are landed on the Pacific coast. They get in by means of certificates of return, which are forged, or which are given to others by those who have left this country to return to China. It is impossible to identify them again. Then numbers come in as merchants and students, and others under passes in transit. They claim to be on their way to Australia or some other country, and once in San Francisco they slip away to the interior. "There was talk" he said, "of holding such passengers on the wharves, but that is absurd. It is impossible to keep hordes of Chinamen on a wharf for a week or two, and when they have once gotten away to the Chinese quarter, it is impossible to find them again."

LEPRONY IN SAN FRANCISCO.

The conversation then turned on O'Donnell, the leper crank, and on leprony among the Chinese.

"O'Donnell is believed to be a crank in San Francisco, observed Mr. Cusack," and no one thinks that he has any lepers. He might have had them, however, if he wanted them, as there are plenty in San Francisco. The Chinese have numbers of cases among them, which they attempt to conceal. The police make periodical raids on the dens to find them and to avoid the spread of the disease among others. make periodical raids on the dens to find them and to avoid the spread of the disease among others. Several cases were found while I was there and I saw them myself. One case was that of a man who had been working for a white family and had it probably while there, as it takes a good many years for the disease to develop the worst form, when the limbs fail off and general rottenness sets in. There is no doubt but what there is any amount of leprosy among the Chinese out West."

The Fifth Annual Encampment of the Fifth Brigade at Springfield. By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

Spansorisio, I.I., August 7.—The fifth annual en-campment of the Second Brigade is by far the best of any of those which have preceded it in company and battalion drills. The men show better efficiency than last year. Gen. N. B. Sweitzer, detailed from the regular army to inspect the camp, arrived last night and was met at the depot by Gen. Reece and staff.

The Missouri Pacific Commuters Again. The Missouri Pacific Commuters are once more up in arms, the present difficulty being the announce-ment by the company that the Friday night 11:25 train is after next Friday to be discontinued. This will leave the residents of the suburban towns entirely without late connection with the city. It is stated that the reason for the discontinuance of the weekly late train is the fact that it does not pay, but the commuters claim that it is virtually part of the inducement to get people to settle up the suburban towns along the road. When this train is taken off 6:20 p. m. will be the latest hour that the homeward trip can be made.

Rud. Schulenberg, on behalf of Mrs. Gertrude Schneider, filed a petition for divorce in the Circuit Court this morning against her husband, John Schneider. The parties were married July 30, 1871, when the plaintiff's martyrdom began. During thirteen years of matrimonial life Sceneider was continually striking her with his fists, with chairs and sticks of wood, calling her vile names, accusing her of vile improprieties, and failing to give her proper support. When Mrs Schneider was not handy he used to make her daughter by a happier union, Josephine Weidner, the victim of his abuse. Add to all this that she alleges that Schneider is a habitual drunkard, and it will be seen that the probabilities of the plaintiff's securing a decree are ample.

The Sheriff sold by auction this morning W. C. Jamison's personal property in his residence at No. 2001 Chestnut street. Mr. Jamison first of all selected 3400 worth of furniture exempt under the statute, and the balance realized the sum of $306.

A. J. P. Garesche rushed in the Circuit Clerk's office just at the closing hour yesterday and hurriedly filed a petition for divorce on behalf of Mrs. Mary Francis Bell Cropsey against victor B. Cropsey after, which he disapprared with the papers, stating that he would leave them in the hands of the Sheriff for service. He explained the evident hurry he was in by stating that he was going to start yesterday for Europe. To day the petition could not be found at the sheriff's office where every one was certain that it had not been left there, and it is feared that in the hurry of departure the well-kinown lawyer has taken the interesting document with him, and that a truly horrible contretemps may arise if, while he is engaged in converse with a Cardinal or other of the exalted Vatican dignitaries, the missing document may by some sudden accident be brought to light.

mission to go, and the greatest skill was required to get away without letting the great mass of applicants know of the departure. A dozen or more posted themselves at various points which they thought the raiders would pass, but the latter eluded them.

Since their departure the whole country has been awaiting news of them with the keenest interest. Various rumors have been in circulation, but the first satisfactory account of their operations was given by the men belonging to the party who returned yesterday. The horse thieves of this section are desperate characters, mostly fugitives from justice from the States or from Europe, who pretend to live by farming or stock raising. Some of them have families, but even those who have none have huts, in which they live by themselves, keeping up a pretense of honesty. They have stolen from stock raisers and farmers in this Territory and in Dakota several hundred head of horses during the past six months, and the present raid was organized for the purpose of recovering the property, if possible, before it was disposed of, as well as of punishing the guilty parties.

When the cowboys were two days out they came upon a humble cabin, situated near the Musselshell, not far from its mouth, around which were picketed a score of stolen animals. None of the party knew the man who came to the door, and his protestation that he was a square settler found some credence at first. He was of middle age, with grizzly hair and whiskers, and had an easy and listless bearing. He stood in the doorway of his cabin eying his visitors sharply, but making no move and giving no evidence of great concern. Falling to answer satisfactorily the questions that were put to him, and not being able to explain his possession of the stolen stock, he was informed by his visitors that they were after just such men as he. He shifted his position from one side of the door to the other, and leaning heavily against the frame, sadd:

"What I have told you is nevertheless true. I bought the horses. I have liv

The Rev. Mr. Smith Illustrates a Deli-

At the regular meeting of the Thompson Street Poker Club, Saturday night, there was trouble. It seemed that each member wished to look on, and that the Rev. Mr. Thankful Smith was the only one who wished to play. Mr. Cyanide Whiffles said he had been arguing the Mulligan letter business with a Cleveland man, and felt tired. Prof. Brick complained that the subject as to whether beer should not be taken through a straw, which he was now investigating, was so complex that he really couldn't get his mind out of it. Mr. Rube Sackson stated that the recent panicky feeling in Wall street had so affected the kaisomining interests that he felt financially indisposed, and Mr. Tooter Williams avowed his belief that the vigorous cash system pursued of late in the club was one which, in view of the coming campaign, the members should modify. The Rev. Mr. Thankful Smith heard these various objections polished his spectacles several times with his bandana, ingeniously adjusted the flyles of his cigar with mucilage so that it would draw, put, his feet on the table, blew a cloud, and for ten minutes seemed lost in an interesting calculation. Then he proposed that the members should each buy $3 worth of chips for cash, and whatever losses went beyond that should be settled by I O U's. This solution to the difficulty met with instant favor, and the alacrity with which even Prof. Brick drew out $3 and his chair to the table, showed that the club's interest in the ngble game had not for a moment abated, not withstanding the other tremendous questions in which the country at large was involved.

Mr. Tooter Williams offered to bank, and, to the great surprise of all, the Rev. Mr. Thankful Smith made not the slightest ebjection. Each member put up his $3 and received the equivalent stacks. Mr. Williams got the deal and the game began.

For two hours the interest was feeble, owing to the two reir country of called hands but cetic Life in the Windowless Pagodas of Rest.

Wong Crinfoo in the Brooklyn Eagle.

Human nature is much the same in China as in Europe. In the Flowery Kingdom men get tired of life, of society, of the endless struggle for existence, and retire to some retreat where Human nature is much the same in China as in Europe. In the Flowery Kingdom men get tired of life, of society, of the endless struggle for existence, and retire to some rotreat where they can pass their remaining days in quiet, study and benefaction. These retreats (mi-au) correspond to the monasteries of Christian landa. They are invariably long brick buildings, one story in height, simple and solemn in architecture, and located either upon the mountains or in the depths of the forests. Around the building is a windowless wall, symbolic of the busy life forever shut out from view. In the grounds and upon the surrounding land nature is assisted, the unit of the control of the forever shut out from view. In the grounds and upon the surrounding land nature is assisted, the weeds and creepers thrive until sometimes it would seem as if no human being lived in the vicinity. Choser examination will show that every plant producing beautiful flowers or wholesome food and fruit is carefully watched and watered, and every resource of vegetation in supplying human wants husbanded to the last degree. This also is a symbolism of the brotherhood who tenant these retreats. To them the useful flower and tree represent the good of humanity, the weeds the evil. The duty of a true manhood is to aid and, develop those who are righteous but not to injure the wrong doer, leaving to nature the task of eliminating the latter from her great economy. These retreats do not belong to specific orders as in the Western civilization, but are founded by one or more persons for the simple sake of rest. The forms and ceremonles of admission amount to nothing. Any person who has failed in life, who has lest those he loved, who has sinned and repended, who is old and unable to work, is eligible. He presents himself, giving his name, address and history, transfers to the brother superior, loyalty, friendship and sympathy to his fellow members, and devotion and aid to all human beings in sickness or distress. He is then admitted, giver a new name a regulations are the same as in monasteries, omitting the element of religion. Cleanliness, sobriety, industry, charity, intellectuality, charity and numility are the seven stars of their heaven. No woman is allowed to cross the threshold of the retreat; no wine, stimulant or narcotic permitted except for medical use; on quarreling, loud conversation, games of chance, indelicate or vulgar talk is allowed. Disobedience is punished by reprimand, suspension, temporary ostracism or expulsion, according to the degree of the offense. Religious faith scarcly enters into their daily life. In the same retreat will be found the Brahmo Buddhist who believes that he will, after many ages, be absorbed into the Divine Being, the Lama Buddhist who knows life to be an evil and who prays for annihilation (Nirvana) the follower of Khoungfootsee, who worships the spirits of his ancestor; the disciple of Lac-tse who believes in the immortality of all forms of life.

The dress worn in the retreat is any that may suit the comfort, taste or convenience of the brother; that used when without the walls is generally yellow in color (that being the emblem of repentance and righteousness), and indicating by badge or cut, the retreat to which its wearer belongs. The number of immates varies. The lowest is that of Laichow, which has but two brathers; the highest that of Tai Sin, with a roll call of six hundred names, the avarage, if the Imperial census may be relied upon, is twenty. The entire number of Mi-aus in the Empire, exclusive of caravansacies, lamseries and distinctively religious establishments, is slightly over eleven thousand. This would show an army of over two hundred thousand men who have renounced the world forever. A quaint ceremony is the burial of a brother. The corpse is treated as he may have requested, or as he believed. With one the joss sticks are lighted and kept burning about the bier; with another incense is ignited in metal braziers so that his soul may pass away through pleasant clouds; with a third the body is l

VANDERBILT'S HEAVY LOSSES. His Wealth Said to Have Dwindled to a Paultry $150,000,000.

A photograph of Vanderbilt's face and its expression as he drives down the road would be a rich addition to any gallery you may have on exhibition. He has lots of dollars and very few friends. But his lots of dollars are not so marvellous to-day as they were. It is no secret, of course, that he has withdrawn $10,000,000 within the year from his strong box of Government bonds, and it is a very open secret that that tolerably "tidy sum of money" was turned over to his son William K., to balance losses made by the young and enterprising scion of the family, under the direction, however, of William H. himself. There is a good reason to believe that, as side from the great shrinkages in the Vanderbilt properties, or rather in the prices of the Vanderbilt securities, the family with the strength of the family as such, have been very far frow fortunate in their Wall Street adventures. You will doubtless recall the fuss-and-feathery way in which every member of that family took possession of his house when furnished, the receptions given by Vanderbilt fils. That, however, was two or three years ago. Have you heard of any reception lately? Were there any grand balls given last year? As a matter of fact, the son's house was not opened at all last winter, and an air of gloom and neglect hung about the place. Mr. Vanderbilt three years ago was supposed, and said by people who ought to know, to be worth in the neighborhood of $200,000,000. Judged by the marked price of his securities to day, and the known amount of Government bonds registered in his name, it is considered a fair estimate to put him down at $150,000,000.

Now, it is manifestly absurd to judge the feelings of a man worth $20,000 or even$4,000,000. The latter would suppose that the possession of $150,000,000 would make him supremely happy and entitely contented with this world which would be quite good esough for him. Suppose, however, that a man were to lose $5,000 of his $20,000. It is clear enough to the most obtuse intellect that he would be worried and ex rom New York Letter to Philadelphia Press. A photograph of Vanderbilt's face and its excited as William H. Vanderbilt is to-day because his millions are not so many as they were a year and a half ago.

Vanderbilt, you must remember, is no longer a young man. I don't know his age, but it is somewhere in the sixties, and he was considerable over forty before his father considered him worth trusting with any considerable amount of money, or as a confidant in any of his vast enterprises. William H. Vanderbilt was a grown man with a grown family, living on Staten Island, as a kind of a half-baked farmer, when his father took it into his bead to utilize him as the only one of the family who had any degree of sense at all. Don't you believe it? Well, think it over. Where are the other Vanderbilts! It would puzzle you to find any. The only Vanderbilt living whom the world ever hears of is William H., and the only reason it ever hears of him is because his father left him a stupendous fortune of $100,000,000.

A Georgia Episode.

From the Rome (Ga.) Courier.

A De Soto father was caught in a most embarassing predicament the other day, when his wife presented him with twins. One of the little new comers had been expected and arrangements made for his reception, but neither the father nor mother had anticipated the intentions of the other little one, and hence had made no preparations for her reception. Clothes had only been provided for one, therefore the amazed embarrassment of the paterfamilias when the little girl put in an appearance immediately after the arrival of the young man can be better imagined than described. Recovering from his astonishment, the father and his friends went promptly to work to extend the young lady the courtesies of her sex. Of course, she must have the best, and she was soon costly attired in the clothes prepared for the first arrival. This left young Mr. — entirely dishabille, and his little form was snugly wrapped up in an American flag, which had been used for decorative purposes during the encampment, and thus he remained until proper apparel could be provided. He should certainly make a patriotic man, as he took his first earthly nap beneath the folds of our proud national colors.

How Shakspeare's Home Was Saved. Stratford-on-Avon Letter in Trenton Times.

Phineas T. Barnum did more for Shakspeare's home than any living man. This sounds passing strange, but it is true. If it had not been for Barnum the birthplace of the great bard would not be in a state of preservation, as it is to-day. When Barnum was in England in 1847 in search of curiosities he learned that Shakspeare's birthplace was for sale, and it was proposed to tear it down and put a store on the site. The great showman thought he saw a chance to secure a prize and at once offered what was equivalent to $12,000 for the house. His idea was to bring the structure bodily to America and put it on exhibition. The owner of the house wanted $15,000 for the property, and stuck at price. Before Barnum had a chance to raise his offer several Englishmen, admirers of the immortal William, concluded it would be a shame to have the house go out of Stratford, and accordingly purchased it at once.

The Origin and Significance of a Few Assorted Oaths.

The Word "Damn" and Where it Came From-Greek and Roman "Cuss-Words"-How Different

"Damns have had their day," said Bob Acres. But for all that, damn is as popular an oath at the present day as it was when Sheridan wrote "The Rivals," and is probably more used, both as verb and noun-substantive, than almost any other word in the English language. Certainly no other expletive ever could compare with it in expressiveness. The French oaths are various and ingeniously constructed; the Italian picturesque and mellifluous; structed; the Italian picturesque and mellifluous; the Russian forceful and difficult to spell; the Chinese elaborate and comprehensive—at least if any one may judge from the language one hears occasionally addressed to mischievous small boys see Chamber. In his oration against Catiline he repeats the oath "Mehercule," in his indignation, a number of times. Roman women swore by Castor and Polutx, or by Gemini, and sometimes by Venus. A lady in Rome would no more think of saying "Mehercule:" than an English or American woman would think of using the word "damn." Their most expressive oath was "Mecastor!" The Greeks swore "by the Deity" most frequently, and the oath by common use came at last to have no more meaning than the French "mon Dieu." Socrates swore "by the Doy;" but he was fond of being held eccentric. He used to say that the dog symbolized Anubis in Egypt as well as Sirius or the Dog Star; and that it had always been considered a sacred animal in Asia. The author of the "History of Swearing," says that there would seem to have been no actual counterpart in the languages of the Greek and Roman to the vituperative swearing of modern days. Pythagoras swore by the number four, which was regarded as the number symbolizing perfection. The cabbage brought from Rhodes to the Athenian markets was considered a great delicacy, and from the estimation in which the vegetable was held it came about that people

The oath still lingers in Italy in the exclamation, "Cavolo!" In France it is used as a term of endearment, and a lover calls his sweetheart "mon petit chou"—my little cabbage. A favorite Athenian oath was "by Minerva." Caligula, the Roman Emperor, nsed to swear by his his horse, Barbarous tribes have been accustomed to swear by the head of their ruler. A specimen of this "personal swearing" may be found in the oath "Great Scott!" which originally referred to General Scott. Promiscous swearing, like its twin accomplishment, heavy drinking, can no longer lay claim to the popularity it once enjoyed among the "line old English gentlemen." When George III sat upon the throne of England swearing was considered an elegant accomplishment, and even the ladies of that day—ay, countesses and duchesses—were in the habit of using language of the most shocking description. The origin of the phrase "by jingo" is traced to the word Jincoa—the Basque name for God. In the earliest translation of "Don Quixote" appears the expression, "by jingo, I did but jest." During the Russian war a vocalist in a London concert saloun, sang nightly a patriotic song, each verse of which was emphasized with a constant recurrence of the oath "by jingo," The term was at once affixed to the war party, and Lord Beaconsfield and his followers were called "Jingos" thenceforth. A French oath, "ventre Saint Gris," has been a puzzle to some etymologists, but the explanation of it is not difficult. Saint Grisor the Grey Saint, was an imaginary deity worshiped by hard drinkers and roysterers. Brantome, the historian, says that the eath of the or head of the order of the order of the order of the order of the order of the order of the order of the order of the order o

Oaths and expletives may be very objectionable, but as long as people are capable of being animated by the passions of joy and hatred, terror and surprise, we shall need some exclamatory safety valve which ordinary languages passion seems to generate the oath with very little assistance," and so, in all probability, it will ever be.
